To whom this concerns in the matter of the Aurora airport extention.

As a citizen of Aurora, and living in close proximity of the airport our family will be directly affected by the extention. The airport at this time is already in close proximity to a residential area. Negative effects include issues of an increase of noise through more a traffic and larger aiplains using the airport. More air pollution, especially through landing and taking off of machines, especially larger ones. These are reducing the quality of living in this close area of residential homes. Safety concerns, as larger plains fly in over a residential area. Furthermore, as a home owner due to the issues mentioned it is to forecast that the home and property values decrease forcing the current home owners to absorb a loss of value in their homes. In addition, the traffic in the area will increase and the Aurora traffic situation is already dealing with backed up traffic several times during the day, also affecting Auroras citizens.

It is easy to appreciate for surrounding cities and communities who share the profits of such an airport extention when not having to carry the burden of such a project. It is the citizens of Aurora who have to share the direct burden of the airport extention and as such the voices of those directly affected by the issue should be heard and be taken seriously. It is easy to see when living in the small community of Aurora that the airport extention has an acute impact on the community, especially of those living close to the airport. Thus I'm against the extention of the airport!

Sincerely,
R. Davenport

A concerned citizen.
